Two County Men Were on Franklin

Decker and Murphy Are Now in Hawaii at Naval Station

Two Ulster county men were serving on the U.S.S. Franklin when the 30,000-ton aircraft carrier was hit by two aerial bombs and seared by flames 60 miles off the Japanese coast, it was learned today. A gunner and a gunner's mate, both survived the ordeal.

The two men were Donald Decker, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Decker, Modena, and a nephew of Mrs. John Van Rensselaer, city, and David Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Murphy, Highland.

Parents of the two men have heard from their sons since the huge carrier was swept by flames and riddled by explosions from its own bombs on March 19, and they know that their sons are recuperating at a Naval station in Hawaii after their experiences aboard the charred and battered carrier.

However, aside from a remark that their ship was damaged, neither of the two Navy men has written his parents any details of the destruction wrought on the mighty carrier, catastrophe that cost the lives of more than 700 men and the wounding of 300 more.

ALLIED FUTURE

When Winston Churchill speaks on policies of war and peace, the world listens. Thoughtful Americans are still digesting his address of last Sunday, in which British and American interests were necessarily interwoven, even though the speaker did not stress that fact. Churchill is not only a great war leader, but a notable historian nearing the end of a long and great career. It is worth while to emphasize a few of the things he said, which may be hereafter in the history books. They are addressed to Britain, but with America in the background.

"You must not weaken in any way. We have yet to make sure that the simple and honorable purposes for which we entered the war are not brushed aside or overlooked in the months following our success, and that the words freedom, democracy and liberation are not distorted from their true meaning as we have understood them. There would be little use in punishing the Hitlerites for their crimes if law and justice did not rule, and if totalitarian or police governments were to take the place of the German invaders.

"We seek nothing for ourselves. But we must make sure that those causes which we fought for find recognition at the peace table in facts as well as words. And above all we must labor that the world organization which the United Nations are creating at San Francisco does not become an idle name, does not become a shield for the strong and a mockery for the weak.

"It is the victors who must search their hearts in their glowing hours, and be worthy, by their nobility, of the immense forces that they wield."

We Americans have never inclined to inflict excessive punishment on beaten foes. Indeed, we have done the opposite, often to our disadvantage. Great moments of decision are coming, whose resolution will be difficult. The American leader who was expected to sit with Churchill in handling them is gone. May Winston Churchill be spared for his last great service.

WILL YOU MEET THE CHALLENGE?

Japan is strong, stronger than we like to believe, although common sense tells us this is true. Girded for years of war, Japan's 35 million workers on the home islands are working every day in the week, from 14 to 16 hours a day, turning out war equipment and foodstuffs. Then, too, there are the four hundred million conquered Asiatic slaves who are, under the whip and lash, manufacturing untold quantities of material. This plus Japan's willingness, as demonstrated to our fighting men, to sacrifice ten million soldiers, gives the United States an enemy empire that is second in size in the world.

We know it took the Marines about four weeks of the hardest fighting in the corps' history to capture two Jima. We know the Japs fought with the determination to die fighting. Altogether we have killed about 100,000 Japs, and taken but a handful of prisoners. Jap soldiers would rather die for their emperor; to do so gives them immediate entry to a pleasant after life, they believe.

This is the enemy now on our list. This is the enemy that attacked Pearl Harbor. This is our challenge. And one of the best methods to meet that challenge and to win is to support the Mighty Seventh War Loan with individual purchases of more and bigger War Bonds.

Set your individual goal according to your ability and then meet it!

Definition of octogenarian: a person who remembers when people could get all the butter they wanted.

If the captured Nazi leaders find life boring, they have only to think about what is coming to them.

When that great news came, it was a little red schoolhouse in France that was on the job.

The Japs are beginning to wish they hadn't started anything.

THE RUSSIAN REGION

Russia, an ever-growing region in area and population, is the most imperialistic and colonizing country. Soviet Russia enjoys an advantage over Great Britain in that all territories that are incorporated in her empire are contiguous, producing a land mass that gives the impression of being a single country. Her gains out of this war are of the same character.

The Russian Region consists not only of Soviet Russia which is a federation of 11 Soviet Republics, but also of the Karelo-Finnish, the Moldavian, the Lithuanian, the Latvian, the Estonian Soviet Republics, all of which represent conquests in this war. In addition, Mongolia, five northern provinces of Iran, the Chinese Communists, the revolutionary forces in Sinkiang are very closely associated with Soviet Russia. Also as a result of the Tehran and Yalta Agreements, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Austria, Hungary and eastern Germany are now either under Soviet control or affiliated with the Russian region.

Starting with an area of 8,000,000 square miles and a population of 183,000,000 people, the Russian Region today probably includes as many as 300,000,000 people—it is hard to estimate exactly because nobody knows how many were killed or have died of starvation in these countries.

In addition to its territorial growth, Soviet Russia is in possession of the most effective international apparatus ever devised by any country—the Third International, sometimes called The Comintern. This is the universal organization of the Communist party which exists in every country, consisting of natives of each country who believe in Marxist-Leninist economic and political principles and who accept the leadership of Stalin with fanatical fidelity. Although the Third International was formally abolished in 1943, recent evidence in every country proves conclusively that it is still a functioning and disciplined organization, responding immediately and effectively to Stalin's orders.

Thus, in addition to the normal methods of imperialism, namely the accretion of territory and control of administration, Soviet Russia possesses this unique power to influence public opinion and even to gain political power in countries which are not part of the Russian Region. Such countries as the United States, Great Britain and France include among its citizens influential and important individuals and groups who serve Russia so ardently as to justify the assumption of direct Russian interference in the affairs and life of those countries.

The Soviet Region is economically underdeveloped. It has received a stimulant from American and British Lend-Lease which amounts to many billions of dollars—final and exact figures not yet being available. No matter how large that sum may be, it is obviously inadequate for the rehabilitation of that area or for the feeding of the huge populations in Europe which have come within the Russian Region—populations that are by race, religion, language and habits of life very different from the Russians and some are normally antagonistic to them. Nevertheless, it must be noted that the Region can provide, in peace, all the food, metals, wood, fibres and other raw materials necessary for the maintenance of a modern economy at a medium standard of living. Neither the present power nor future strength of this region should be underestimated.

The Russian Region differs radically from the American or British Regions in that the political organization is anti-democratic being based upon a despotism supported by a party oligarchy. There is no freedom for the individual, only obligations to the state which enjoys supreme authority. Furthermore, in both the American and British Regions the economy is capitalistic, private enterprise existing in production and distribution and in the accumulation and flow of capital. In the Russian Region, all production and distribution is a state monopoly and although capital may be privately accumulated, its flow and use is determined by the state.

Although Soviet Russia possesses a hoard of gold, it has provided no figures on that subject nor is it possible to gain accurate and provable data on its economic state. Soviet Russia, however, has been forced to finance this war out of American and British Lend-Lease and is now negotiating to borrow $6,000,000,000 from the United States for postwar purposes. Obviously, the Region still needs the support, at any rate, of the United States. (Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MENTAL SYMPTOMS

Symptoms of heart disease may be present whether or not true or organic heart disease is present. Individuals with organic heart disease are of two classes, those who pay little attention to their symptoms and those who are anxious and afraid when the slightest heart symptoms occur. There are on the other hand those without true heart disease who suffer as much as those with true or organic heart disease.

In the Connecticut Medical Journal, Dr. Eugen Kahn, Yale University, states that from the standpoint of symptoms present, patients may be divided into those without and those with organic heart disease. The group without heart disease includes persons who have always been anxious and tense, who under emotional stress, may develop all manner of symptoms resembling the symptoms of heart disease. The commonest symptom is high blood pressure, mostly systolic high blood pressure, occurring with the first beat and easily raised by excitement, large meals and other circumstances. Other symptoms, exactly like true heart disease are rapid heart beat, pain over the heart under the breast bone, frequent desire to pass the urine, feeling of weakness, headaches and many other complaints.

In this group are many of the quiet, anxious type of individual who are greatly upset when they notice an extra heart beat, and from that moment begin to worry about the slightest symptom that might resemble a symptom of heart disease. There are also active, anxious and tense individuals who are able to control their anxiety, but a certain degree of nervousness and a certain degree of trembling under pressure have symptoms resembling heart disease symptoms, and they too become worried and depressed about their heart.

In the group with real or organic heart disease patients with exactly the same symptoms react differently according to their disposition or training. Some robust individuals pay little attention to their symptoms and others of the nervous or emotional type who "overemphasize" or exaggerate the situation and seem to welcome the idea of being a "heart" invalid.

Naturally in the treatment of the nervous symptoms in organic or non-organic heart disease the person—not the symptoms—is to be treated.

The Hitler Legacy

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

In August, 1929, John C. Porter, general secretary; Chester R. Hall, boys' work secretary, and Physical Director Frank "Pop" Hinds of the local Y.M.C.A., filed their resignations to take effect later in the year.

Mr. Porter came to Kingston in 1925 to take over his duties as general secretary, and during his administration the "Y" summer camp at Glenierie was established, and he also organized the Y's Men's Club which was active for years at the "Y."

Mr. Hall came to Kingston in 1919, while Mr. Hinds assumed his duties in 1926. As I recall it, Mr. Hall was instrumental in organizing the Hi-Y Club, and was one of the most efficient directors of boys' activities in the history of the local association.

"Pop" Hinds was noted as an organizer of basketball and during his regime the "Y" turned out some of the fastest teams in its history. On September 11, 1929, Mr. Hall was tendered a farewell banquet at McCabe's Restaurant on Wall street by the Hi-Y Club.

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignations the board of directors elected General Secretary Clarence S. Schoonmaker of the Chateaufort "Y" to take charge of the local association. His assistants were N. H. Fuller in the place of Mr. Hall, and Guy Allen in the place of Mr. Hinds.

And while on the subject of resignations Rabbi Morris M. Rose, for six years in charge of Temple Emanuel on Abel street, in September, 1929, filed his resignation, and that year he assumed his new duties as rabbi of the Temple Zion in Brooklyn.

Rabbi Rose during the six years he was in Kingston was widely known, and active in the religious life of the city. R. Grant Johnston, well known as a manufacturer, in August, 1929, purchased the three-story brick building at 38 Ferry street, where he is still located. For many years the building had been used as an office of the old Central Hudson Steamboat Co. Prior to that B. Morse Tremper for years conducted a wholesale feed and flour business in the building, which later was used by the late Morris Block as a dress factory.

Mr. Johnston's awning business is one of the oldest in this section. The business was originally started by R. G. Stoneham of Albany, as a branch sailmaking shop in a building on Ferry street, at the foot of Canal street.

When this building was destroyed by fire, about 1881, the business was carried on in another building on Ferry street under the name of Johnston Brothers, who moved to the ground floor of 34 Ferry street in the late 90's where the business was carried on by R. Grant Johnston until he purchased the adjoining building where he has since been located.

William C. Kukuk, for years a well known undertaker of this city, died on August 2, 1929. He established the funeral home on Tremper avenue, where the business is being carried on by his son, W. Kenneth Kukuk.

Mr. Kukuk was a charter member of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, and for many years was an active member of Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. and A. M.

After the business meeting the visitors inspected the Health Center and refreshments were served.

The board of directors of Ross Park, Inc. met Thursday evening, in the town clerk's office. Dr. George Ross, president, conducted the meeting. She reported that these additional organizations had contributed as follows: Presentation Holy Name, $25; Reformed Ladies Aid, $5; Knit and Sew, $5; Port Ewen School Association, $5; Ladies' Bowling League, $1.50. The committee reported that the drainage ditches were completed and that the water would be laid next week, if the weather permits. It was voted to hire a caretaker for the park. His services would be needed for four months, beginning June 1. The caretaker would have the privilege of conducting the soft drink, candy and ice cream concession on the grounds. Anyone interested in the proposition is requested to apply to the secretary, Robert Fairbrother, by mail. Plans were made to pipe down water into the picnic area and the playground for two drinking fountains. The next meeting of the board will be held in the town clerk's office Thursday evening, May 24. Important matters concerning the development of the grounds will come up for discussion and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Conference Is Slowed, Because Acting Chairmen Have to Refer to Home Capitals on Important Matters

By DAVID LAWRENCE

San Francisco, May 19—The United Nations Conference has reached its most trying stage. With the departure of important delegates because of pressing situations at home, the acting chairmen in charge find it necessary to refer back to their home capitals the texts of proposals. This causes a slowing up of procedure.

Last Saturday, for instance, an agreement was reached by four major powers—France, Britain, China, and the United States—upon the wording of a regional formula. It provided that, if any group of nations were the victims of an armed attack and the security council failed to take action, the right of self-defense, which has always been individual, could become collective and action could be validly taken by the regional group.

Strictly speaking, this is not a novel principle of international intercourse and should not have absorbed much time. But the Russian ambassador said he had no instructions and had to ask Moscow for the same. Accordingly, the four other major powers have waited for that answer. Meanwhile, under the procedure adopted here, the United States could not lay the proposal before the Latin-American nations. It was, however, made public so everybody could know the contents.

Every day since last Saturday it has been hoped that some word would come from Moscow. Finally, on Wednesday it was insisted that unless word was received by three o'clock on Thursday, the delegates would go ahead with submission of the proposal to the committee in charge. Again no word came, but one of the American officials said there could be another day's wait, and so the matter has drifted.

This sort of thing is bound to go on because of the difficulties in getting approval by radio. Maybe the foreign commissar's arrival in Moscow was awaited before Marshal Stalin would give his reply to the Russian ambassador. Mr. Molotov was reported to have reached Moscow early this week. Maybe, on the other hand, the Russians do not intend to commit themselves on anything till all the provisions of the document have gone through the committee stage, so they can approve or disapprove the document as a whole.

The logical thing to do, of course, is to go ahead with all proposals through regular committees, and before the charter is submitted for final approval, there will be indications from all countries as to whether they intend to ratify. Last-minute changes might be made to secure complete agreement.

The difficulty here is really one of procedure. It was agreed, for example, that nothing would be submitted to the committees by the major powers that had not been cleared through the sponsoring powers. Senator Vandenberg, who has been handling the matter with the Latin-American delegations, has been perturbed by the delays, and at one time is said to have threatened to resign from one of the committees if these delays were allowed to go on.

Procedural troubles and difficulties due to communication are not the only problems that must be solved between now and the time the final charter is proclaimed. An important question arises as to the right of withdrawal. This privilege was written into the League of Nations covenant, each member being permitted after two years' notice and completion of obligations, presumably financial, to withdraw.

The new charter is not to be a permanent contract in the sense that a constitution binds interior states or provinces. It is a treaty, and treaties as a rule either have a termination date or they provide a method of termination upon giving notice.

The United States Senate would never approve a charter which did not have a clause assuring the right of withdrawal. For the organization being welded together here is not a super-state or a world state, but a compact between sovereign nations. Any nation which considers that the provisions of the compact are being abused should be able to withdraw, but if its reasons are unjustified in the eyes of the world, it would bear the responsibility for such a step and would risk the condemnation of all other states. Although not intended as a means of escape from obligations assumed, the withdrawal clause is in itself a sort of veto against arbitrary or intolerable action and is especially desirable where the major powers have such a powerful veto themselves in the security council.

LEE G. MILLER'S COLUMN

Aboard a Cruiser in the South China Sea (by wireless)—Almost every morning an orderly comes around and says Rear Admiral Russell S. Berkey would like to have the reporters come to the bridge or to his sea cabin.

So we go topside and there is the Admiral with a sheet or two of pencilled notes. A few officers and the correspondents gather around, and the Admiral relays to us the news he has picked up on his radio—later news than the ship's four-page mimeographed morning paper carries since it goes to press about 1 a. m.

Sometimes the Admiral will hold back the biggest events of the day while he works off the lesser items. And then his eyes will twinkle as we exclaim at this or that sensational development. That's the way we got the first report of Hitler's death and many other things. (The ship's paper scooped the Admiral on Mussolini's death, but buried it on page three.)

The radio with which the Admiral does his news gathering is a fourth-hand job he bought for $3. He tinkered with it until now he even gets Berlin direct. He loves gadgets and machines, and naval communications are one of his preoccupations. Incidentally he has invented a new kind of can opener.

When we are sitting with the Admiral and Captain Jack Duncan in the cool of the evening, high up on the forward superstructure, his smart young orderly is always standing stiffly near his chair, along with a "talker" who relays telephone messages from below. If the sunset is particularly gorgeous, the Admiral will send the orderly below for his movie camera and record a minute or two of it.

Admiral Berkey is fond of swimming and fishing. But his real passion is good food. Braised sweetbreads are his favorite dish, according to Lieut. Hugh Jones of New York City and Ulster, his "Flag Lieutenant" or aide. Hugh, who has a great liking and respect for the Admiral, has been known to spend hours combing a port city for sweetbreads. When the Admiral dines in a restaurant ashore he is apt to consult keenly with the chef about the dark secrets of fine cookery.

Church school at 10 o'clock. A cordial welcome to all who wish to unite in the study of the Bible. Morning worship (Pentecost Sunday) at 11:00 o'clock. Sermon: "Springing and Pentecost" Junior League and Pentecost Junior League are welcome. The Women's Society will meet Tuesday evening at the church hall at 8 o'clock. The W. C. T. U. will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The work for the day is "Pentecost." Children's Day will be observed June 2nd. Morning service at 11:00 o'clock. Opportunity for Christian baptism will be given.

Public Apparently Likes New Hours

Friday evenings and other times of merchandising observed the Saturday evening hours. This, in many cases, made it necessary for shoppers to spend two evenings in town to do their shopping. With all lines of business observing the same evening hours Friday, all shopping may be done at one time. Inquiry among several different business houses last evening indicated that the Friday evening hours seemed to be satisfactory both from the shopper and the merchant standpoint. Several proprietors expressed an opinion that business had been about up to the usual Saturday business and some expressed an opinion that since this was the first time change in store hours had been in effect, some people may not yet be familiar with the change and time will be required to ascertain a true picture of the situation. In most instances it was agreed that the change would be a decided benefit.

Legion Officers Nominations Are Filed at Meeting

The nominating committee of Kingston Post of the American Legion last night filed the nomination of a slate of officers to be voted upon at the annual meeting in July.

S. H. Peyer, long active in the Legion, was nominated for commander. Others nominated were Henry Fisher, James R. Murphy and Walter J. Miller, vice commanders; Andrew J. Murphy, adjutant; William T. Roedell, treasurer; Charles J. Turck, athletic officer; Charles W. Shultis, welfare officer; historian, Eugene B. Carey; service officer, Harry Karmann; sergeant at arms, William Scott; trustee for three years, Charles H. Hummer, Jr.; executive committee, Thomas Bohan, Morton Finch, Harry Kirchner and Thomas J. Murray.

Lester Barth, chairman of the membership committee, reported 632 paid up members, and of that number 171 are veterans of the present World War.

Past Commander Roy E. Jacobs reported that plans for the annual Memorial Day had been completed, and arrangements had been made to have 11 musical combinations in the parade.

The Post voted to send a check of $5 for the Cancer Control Fund. It was announced that Poppy Day arrangements have been made. The sale of poppies will start Monday, May 21, and continue through May 28, and that during the campaign special sale attractions would be held at the Broadway Theatre and at The Barn.

Luzon Soldiers Take Ipo Dam

strength and penetrating to the outskirts of Manila, Americans began playing lights on low clouds at night.

The reflected glow lighted the mountains, enabling U. S. artillery and mortar crews to continue firing through the night without endangering their own troops, and revealing infiltration attempts as soon as they came into the open.

On clear, moonless nights, searchlight crews risked Japanese artillery fire and played their beams directly on hillside or into gulches.

These tactics, coupled with recent fire bombings broke the Japanese spirit, whereupon the 43rd Division and guerrillas closed a carefully prepared trap by seizing the dam.

Major Gen. Charles P. Hall of San Antonio, Tex., 11th Corps commander who directed the operation, was decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal for his "aggressive leadership and thorough understanding of amphibious and jungle warfare."

The guerrilla force, under Col. Marcus Augustin, usually called "Colonel Markings", reached the dam first. The 43rd approaching from the south, met harder going, killing more than 100 Japanese and capturing six 20 mm. guns. More than 375 Thunderbolts and Lightnings of the Fifth Airforce paved the way for the final assault, dropping a ton of bombs for every 10 Japanese along the battlements.

Inasmuch as the Japanese still hold part of the aqueduct route, capture of the dam does not assure Manila immediate use of the water.

To the south, the U. S. 38th Division moved toward the Wawa Dam, another source of Manila's water, by capturing high ground 3,500 yards northwest of Mount Batangan against heavy resistance, killing at least 200.

On Mindanao, the U. S. 31st Division captured Valencia and two all-weather grass airstrips in the central part of the island.

Killed in Action

STEPHEN JACKSON

P.F.C. Stephen S. Jackson, 21, only son of Mrs. Viona S. Henning of Attica, formerly of Tilton, was killed in action April 5, while serving with the 53rd Armored Engineer Battalion in Germany. Before moving to Attica three years ago, P.F.C. Jackson resided on the Springtown Road in Tilton. He attended the grade school in New Paltz and was graduated from Kingston High School in 1941. Entering the service on February 22, 1943, he received his basic training at Fort Bliss, Texas, and was then sent under the A.S.T.P. to the University of Illinois at Champaign, Ill., for a course in engineering, and went overseas in November, 1944. His last letter home was received the day the telegram reporting his death arrived. He was last home in September, visiting his family with his fiancée, Miss Jean Heath of Champaign.

He leaves, besides his mother and stepfather, his grandmother, Mrs. Manley Howard of Tilton, and an aunt, Mrs. Alvin Morand of Ossining.

A letter from the army headquarters of the Eighth Armored Division tells of the circumstances of his death and of his religious military funeral services at the graves in Margraten, Holland. It reads in part:

"The entire division, a part of the Ninth United States Army, was fighting into the vanishing Ruhr industrial center. As we approached the vicinity of Ammelte, Germany, the column was halted by small arms fire and Stephen and the others dismounted from their half-track and sought cover. While running for cover he was struck by a sniper's bullet and mortally wounded. In spite of immediate first aid and excellent medical attention he died while being evacuated to the hospital."

"At the time Stephen was assigned to this division, March 25, 1944, we were stationed at Camp Peck, La., and preparing for our combat training. He was one of our 'old men' in that he was with us during our entire training period, and we will miss him greatly. Your son was recognized as an excellent soldier and well liked by officers and enlisted men of his company."

ON IMPORTANT MISSION

A North Air Force Bomber Base, France, flying in a North Air Force A-24 Havoc against an important enemy railroad yard at Northeast, Germany, Staff Sergeant Conrad P. Hennes, 25, of Kingston, recently shared a high commendation for his part in its bombing mission.

The long transportation center, supplying the enemy forces opposing Allied advances toward Berlin, was pulverized by "super-accurate" hits on the target by the 410th Light Bombardment Group, in which Sergeant Hennes is an aerial gunner.

He attended Kingston High School, and entered the Army in November, 1942. His mother, Mrs. Ellis Hennes, resides on Lawrenceville street, in Kingston.

Lieut. Bilyou Awarded Bronze Star Medal

Lieut. Ronald B. Bilyou

Fifth Air Force, Philippine Islands—A B-25 pilot with 28 missions against the Japs, Second Lieut. Ronald B. Bilyou, 20, son of Floyd F. Bilyou, 90 Tubby street, Kingston, N. Y., recently has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for "meritorious service."

Lieutenant Bilyou, a member of the veteran 35th Bombardment Group "Air Apaches," a low level Mitchell attack unit, was cited for conspicuous service last fall in a non-flying capacity.

Following an attack by Jap planes on a U. S. transport ship in which several men were injured by bomb explosions, the Kingston airman was one of a group of uninjured who braved flames and danger of a second attack to remove wounded men to safety. The action took place in Philippine waters.

Lieutenant Bilyou also has been recommended for award of the Air Medal "for meritorious achievement while participating in sustained aerial flight." He took part in the aerial offensive paving the way for the Philippines landings, and later during the Philippines liberation campaign. His outfit, skip bombing specialists, is currently blasting at Jap shipping in the Formosa and South China Sea areas, having sunk more than 43,000 tons of enemy shipping during a six-week period.

Lieutenant Bilyou entered the army in April, 1943, and won his wings and commission in June, 1944.

PROMOTED

An Air Transport Command Base, Townsville, Aust.—Mario G. Goffredi, 24, of 163 Clinton avenue, has been promoted to Technical Sergeant in Australia, where he is assigned to an Air Transport Command unit of the Southwest Pacific Wing.

Before joining the army Sgt. Goffredi was a student at Kingston High School and played football with the Kingston Yellow Jackets.

Promoted to Corporal

Key Field, Miss., May 19.—The promotion of W.A.C. P.C. Mitchell E. Remmler of Samsonville to the grade of corporal was announced here today.

Daughter of Mrs. Mary Moore, Samsonville, Cpl. Remmler enlisted in the Women's Army Corps October 7, 1944. Her husband, Sgt. Carl B. Remmler, is serving in Canada with the Air Transport Command.

A stenographer, she is a graduate of Kingston High School and of the Spencer Business School. Prior to her enlistment, she was employed by the Standard Oil Co. in Bayonne, N. J.

Word From Reds Is Awaited by U. S. Delegation in West

It is talk that Colombia may thus qualify her position unless adequate provision is made for an international defense system, and Canada may act likewise unless assured of a voice in any peace-enforcement decision by which she would have to contribute armed forces.

A meeting late yesterday of the conference executive committee headed by Stettinius received a proposal from Secretary-General Alger Hiss that the conference end by June 2.

The executive group was reported to have reached general agreement that between the end of this conference and the establishment of a world organization there should be an interim committee to carry on the preliminary organization work.

The conference committee studying the red-hot veto-voting question decided last night to try to find out exactly how the Yalta voting formula, requiring unanimity among the great powers on all important peace-keeping questions, would apply to peaceful settlement of disputes.

Delegates reported that the British had raised some question about whether any great power would have a veto over moves for conciliation, arbitration and the like between disputing nations. A subcommittee was named to try over the week-end to clarify this question. Should it decide that the Yalta formula provides no veto on peaceful settlements and should the big powers all accept this, the small nations could count a major gain in their drive to limit the veto to use of force. All the big powers are represented on the subcommittee.

Summer Workers Need Social Security

Workers in summer resorts and hotels are included in the coverage of old-age and survivors insurance program, and therefore need social security account cards and their employers are required to report their wages under the Social Security Act, Ruben R. Blane, manager of the Kingston office of the Social Security Board stated today.

Housewives who have not worked previously outside of the home and women engaged in various occupations who have worked part-time and during vacation periods, high school youths, members of the armed forces, imported laborers from outside the United States, and teachers are affected by this coverage. They need to know that they should have a card, where to get it, what to do with it and where to keep it, Blane stated.

Where to Get a Card

If you have never had a card, ask the nearest office of the Social Security Board for one. The office which covers Ulster county is located in the Central Post Office Building in Kingston. If you already have a card, you don't need another. If you have lost your card, ask the nearest office of the Social Security Board for a duplicate. Don't ask for a new card. Get a duplicate with the same number on it. That number is the number of your social security account in Baltimore. If you ask for a new card, a second account will be set up for you and you may have trouble getting all your benefits when you claim them.

What to Do With It

Show your card to your employer. See that he copies your name and number exactly as they appear on your card. Then when your employer makes his report to the government showing your wages, there can be no mistake.

Where to Keep It

Your social security card is the key to your wage record, from which your benefits will be figured. So keep it safe, preferably in a tough envelope in your billfold or purse. To make doubly sure, put the lower half, or stub in some safe where you can always find it. For your own security remember—one card, one number, for a lifetime.

Employers can secure a copy of a circular "Outline of Employer's Duties Under the Social Security Act" from the office of the Social Security Board in the Central Post Office Building in Kingston.

The War Today

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(A.P. Foreign News Analyst)

The Leftist tide which is sweeping across Europe seems to be reaching dangerously high on the throne of Belgium.

King Leopold—who was released recently by American troops near Salzburg, Austria, where he had been held prisoner by the Germans—reportedly has made it known that he won't be returning to his capital for some time because of his "state of health." Actually, of course, he was deprived of his throne on May 30, 1940, by an order which was approved by the Belgian cabinet in exile in Paris.

Leftist groups in Brussels shrug away the "state of health" explanation. Their terse and ominous response is that it's for Parliament to decide whether Leopold is in position to fulfill the duties of king. He's on a tough spot, but of far greater importance than his own fate is that of the monarchy. The extreme Left has no use for royalty.

Leopold was shorn of his prerogatives three days after he surrendered the Belgian Army to the invading Germans, thereby exposing the left flank of the British forces to the fury of the Hitlerite attack. His supporters declared that he had on other course than to capitulate to the enveloping enemy, especially since countless Belgian civilians had mingled with their troops and were being killed in the swirling battle. But shouts of "treason" and "pro-German" were heard in the streets of Paris.

The situation then, and now, seems very unreal as one looks back to the way Belgium had emerged from the last war under the leadership of the famous King Albert and his wonderful Queen, Elizabeth. The royal pair and their three children retired with their army to the tiny corner of the country which was held against the Germans in the La Panne sector.

After the war I saw their triumphant return to their capital from exile. Hundreds of thousands thronged the streets to welcome their beloved royal family. Leopold was 17 then, and heir to the throne.

No king or queen stood higher in the world's esteem than Albert and Elizabeth. One would have thought then that the throne was as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar—and perhaps it still is. Time will tell. Anyway, when King Albert fell from a precipice to his death in 1934, his crown prince came into a great and honored heritage. Half a dozen years and Belgium—for centuries the cockpit of Europe—again was swept with war.

Leopold's surrender, and his loss of royal prerogatives in the past—none of the moment, by no means explain his present predicament. Belgium, like neighboring France and so many other continental countries, is caught in the epochal struggle between the "Left" and the "Right." If the "Left" wins, the throne presumably will go. Leopold really doesn't figure greatly in the scheme of things. A dynasty and the way of life of a nation are at stake.

Navy Seeks Young Men For Radar Courses

In denying a report which has received some circulation, Chief Donald R. White, in charge of the navy recruiting station, Poughkeepsie, today stated, "Enlistments in the U. S. Navy are still open and at the present time there is no indication that they will be closed."

Quite to the contrary, there is an ever increasing demand for young men in the field of radar and every effort is being made by the recruiting service to supply a sufficient number of young men.

Young men interested may obtain information from Chief White at Poughkeepsie.
